

WE NOMINATE

David Eli Lilienthal, a world-roaming Princetonian for the past six years and one of the articulate, long-visioned Americans of his time. This week—as Princeton University's Stafford Little Lecturer—Lilienthal broke a 13-year silence and for the first time since his resignation in 1950 as chairman of the U.S. Atomic Energy Commission discussed his views of the Nation's policies on atomic energy and nuclear arms. For many, and particularly those in their 40's and 50's, the first two lectures in a three-part series (the concluding lecture is scheduled for February 19th at 8:00 p.m.), were warning and rewarding experiences, underscoring the capacities and insights of a man who has successfully led "two sorts of lives."

Born in Morton, Ill., in 1899, the year the Stafford Little Lectures were established as an annual sounding-board for President Grover Cleveland, Lilienthal by the time he was 50 had completed two decades of distinguished public service. One of the original three directors of the Tennessee Valley Authority, and chairman of the mammoth project from 1941 until 1946, he leaped from the frying-pan into the holocaust in becoming the founding head of the Atomic Energy Commission. In 1950, when he entered upon a "second career" culminated by his elevation to the chairmanship of the internationally known Development and Resources Corporation, Lilienthal in the opinion of The New York Times "was perhaps the most controversial figure in Washington."

Reviewing the position of the United States on nuclear arms control from Hiroshima to the Geneva Conferences, and entitling his opening lecture "The Mythology of Nuclear Disarmament," he spoke with the ringing and moving convictions that have been Lilienthal hallmarks in both public and private life. It is his contention that the isolation of the explosive atom from the rest of human affairs is a doctrine that rests upon a mistaken premise. "An understanding of the atom—including nuclear weapons—requires more than technical knowledge of physics or 'weapon engineering'. It is man and the conduct of human affairs that we must understand, not inanimate gadgets or operations research."

Many in the capacity McGosh Hall audience thought back some 16 years to Lilienthal's dramatic declaration of his faith in democracy before a Joint Congressional Committee pondering his confirmation as AEC Chairman. In response to needling questions, Lilienthal stated in part: I conceive the Constitution "to rest, as does religion, upon the fundamental proposition of the integrity of the individual; and that all government and private institutions must be designed to promote and protect and defend the integrity and the dignity of the individual; that that is the essential meaning of the Constitution and the Bill of Rights, as it is essentially the meaning of religion."

As deeply respected in New York and Washington as he is in Iran, Italy, Ghana, Puerto Rico, Colombia and the Far East, Lilienthal has been cited for achievement by individuals as widely separated as the late Franklin D. Roosevelt and hard-bitten Wall Street financiers. One of the latter feels that imagination is "his greatest quality" and recalls that Lilienthal, some nine years before the World Bank acted, foresaw and recommended the joint development of the Indus River Basin by the governments of India and Pakistan.

For looking upon this country as "land which forever renews its youth by magnificent dreams and noble plans turned into great deeds"; for insisting that a "world of change" can also be a "world of hope"; he is TOWN TOPICS' nominee as

LOT PURCHASE APPROVED
By Borough Council passed on the second try Tuesday an ordinance to buy the Lahiere-Kane property at Spring and Tulane Streets. A $200,000 bond issue was authorized to cover the purchase and cost of turning the lot into a public parking area for 53 cars. The land is appraised at $175,000.

Tuesday's crowded public hearing was strongly partisan both pro and con—and not one to make a book on. An unexpected switch by Dr. Ellwood W. Godfrey, Council president and finance chairman, pulled the ordinance through. Previously he had joined Alan W. Carrick and Joseph R. Wood in dissent, stating, "The idea intrigues me, the price appalls me."

But he emerged from the brief recess period with a motion that the just-defeated ordinance be re-considered. He said that he had been informed that the planned site for a new public library building on the Witherspoon-Wiggins Street parking lot made the purchase of the substitute parking spaces absolutely necessary. The vote on the second round was 4 to 2.

Mayor Henry S. Patterson stated during the recess that Township Mayor H. Kennell Farman had phoned him, reporting the endorsement of the library site by his executive committee. The matter of Township support and financial share Mr. Patterson said, will be presented at the next meeting of the Township Committee, set for 8 p.m., February 19.

Pros and Cons. The issue of the new library site was not a part of the ordinance, but it colored most of the comments during the hearing. Prof. Robert R. Palmer of 200 Prospect Avenue, vice-chairman of the Friends of the Public Library, endorsed the ordinance as a "step towards the central location of the new building for the library." He added that the library has 10,000 card holders, 70 percent of whom live outside the Borough. Three hundred of the 400 daily users are adults who combine visits to the library with errands in the center of town.

The Chamber of Commerce also approved of the ordinance, but took a dim view of a library located on the Witherspoon-Wiggins Street parking lot. Attorney Albridge C. Smith read the Chamber's survey figures on the limited parking available to the central business district.

The proposed location of the library, he said, was the already shocking figures in this most handicapped area of our Borough. "He was supported by architect-planner Charles Agle who warned that "decentralization of central business district can happen in Princeton, too. The handwriting is on the wall. If you take a walk through the area."

R. W. Van de Velde of 222 Western Way opposed the ordinance. "I think there is overpressure on parking," He suggested that the Lahiere-Kane space be used for additional stores and that a rear loading area behind Nassau Street stores be established. "I'm all for a library in the center of town," he added.

Endorsements came from Fred English, representing residents of Princeton; Dr. Nathan Kasriel and Dr. Charles Allen, optometrists at Nassau and Tulane Streets and David Landau, Charles W. Cornforth of 71 Westcott Road was told by Mayor Patterson that the bond issue would bring an increase of about two cents on the tax rate.

In answer to a question from Sylvia Livermore, Council candidate last fall on the Democratic ticket, the mayor said the parking lot may replace parking spaces lost to the public library, but the size of the library building is not yet known. Recltor William Thompson argued against the ordinance, saying that "for the same price you can get 100

Round-Up

If your child has eaten aspirin in tablets like candy, or decided that his thirst can be quenched by a cup of gasoline, what's the first thing you should do? The answers, in considerable detail, are found in a report on page 16 detailing the life-saving work carried out by Princeton Hospital's Accident Dispensary.

Review and analysis of the Benjamin Britten opera last week at McCarter (page 5); of the Cleveland Symphony Orchestra's annual Princeton performance (page 26); of the Princeton basketball team's weekend move from fifth to second place and a commanding position in the Ivy League race (page 22); of the National Conference on Religion and Race attended by two Princetonians (page 27).

Major stories in the news include Borough Hall's annual report to the taxpayers on how wide he will have to open his pocketbook... progress being made on actual construction of the proposed Route 206 Bypass... a shooting at 75 Cleveland Lane that climaxed a raid seeking divorce evidence... and a tragic fire that took a life at Princeton Junction, as well as an early-morning blaze extensively damaging Trinity Church.

Last in the larger headlines was the fact that the Borough had a birthday the day before Lincoln's... Monday, February 11, was the 150th anniversary of the signing of the document which created the municipality.

A white Buick owned by Dr. Thomas James, 45 Vandewater Avenue, was stolen from the Princeton Hospital parking yard and spotted later in Hightstown by George Cramer, who has an eye for that particular make... he sells them for Kammiller-Buick, of which he is vice-president... Mr. Cramer had heard reports of the car's theft, for which Robert Cheney, of Cranbury, an 18-year old AWOL from the Marines, was taken into custody.

Another car suffered a different fate last Thursday, fire severely damaging a 1954 Cadillac owned by Robert Guldenson, manager of Terrace Club on Washington Road... a short circuit was listed as the cause.

The Small Animal Rescue League, which has reported problems in caring for the cats and dogs it seeks to aid, plans to build a dog-shelter on the Gallick farm property on the Princeton-Kingston Road... the necessary variance will be sought from the Township Zoning Board on Thursday, February 21.

University protesters will be on the watch this weekend to forestall any attempts to repeat the ticket scalping which reportedly preceded the Penn-Princeton basketball game here earlier this month. In the affair was a rock-bomb sellout, and scores of undergraduates wanted to see the game were unable to purchase seats... because Penn had a cheering section here, while Harvard and Dartmouth, this weekend's opponents, will not, the demand was greater, but by game-time Bill Bradley's drawing power is likely to have the SRO sign up again.

February temperatures fluctuations continue to produce wide swings... it was 54 last Wednesday and 48 hours later, outlying areas recorded six below.

This Is Princeton

In the final vote, after Dr. Goffrey had switched to the affirmative, he was joined by Councilmen Walker, Hult and Sorenson, Councilmen Carrick and Wood remained opposed.

PROGRESS ON BY-PASS
Work May Start Next Year. The possibility that construction may start within the next 12 to 18 months on the proposed by-pass northeast of Princeton was made known this week by Dwight R. C. Palmer, State Highway Commissioner.

Accelerated tempo is being given the project, and bids on the 14-mile link from Routes 206 to 32 will be asked next month. Biggest problem prior to construction, of course, is the fact that the final path which the highway will take is still the subject of considerable municipal debate.

Upwards of half a dozen boroughs and townships in three counties have a direct interest in the by-pass. All believe it should be built but few have the same alignment in mind, and little progress was made at a public hearing held last summer.

Nonetheless, Commissioner Palmer said this week that he plans to study the question of final alignment and make a recommendation to the U.S. Bureau of Public Roads—probably late this summer. Fifty percent of the cost, which has been estimated at $14 million, will be met by federal funds.

University Seeks Action. Increased progress on the by-pass was achieved through a meeting called by Gov. Hughes at the request of Princeton University. Heavy and constant truck traffic on Washington Road, which bisects the eastern portion of the University campus, has been a source of annoyance for years to many in lecture halls and classrooms.

On Monday, the State Assembly unanimously passed a bill which would resignate the by-pass as a freeway. The effect is to give the project higher priority on the list of construction planned by the Highway Department. Merger Assemblymen Charles E. Farington, Edward J. Sweeney and Vincent R. Faurio sponsored the measure, which will now await Senate action until that body reconvenes next month.

If construction of the by-pass is started during 1964, there is no apparent guarantee when it will be completed. Commissioner Palmer said that no such forecast can be made, indicating that the entire amount necessary may not immediately be available.

TRINITY CHURCH BURNS
Damage Is Extreme. Fire early Wednesday morning completely gutted the nave of Trinity Episcopal Church, with damage to the picturesque Stockton Street landmark running in the thousands of dollars.

Belief was that the furnace, located in the basement below the center of the building, was the cause. Thick smoke was spotted by Borough Patrolmen Markson and Forward driving down Mercer Street at 6:18 a.m. and a general alarm was sounded immediately.

Having gained considerable headway, the flames made an inferno of the center of the church by the time the Fire Department arrived. Heavy smoke pouring from the building was an added problem in battling the blaze.

Firemen were on the scene for several hours, with the flames at one point breaking out a second time. Damage general was confined to the main section of the church.

Raymond Rudy, organist at Trinity for many years, reported that the organ and all its accessories were undamaged. He added that it had been possible to save a number of valuable books and the church records.

Severely stained glass windows were among the casualties, and firemen had to chop holes in the slate roof to get at the fire under the eaves. Undamaged, however, were Trinity's chimes: at the height of the conflagration, they tolled the hour at 7 a.m.

DETECTIVE IS SHOT
In Cleveland Lane Raid. A raiding party lost one of its members and a husband lost considerable face shortly before 4 a.m. Friday in a one-act drama staged at 75 Cleveland Lane. Some 12 hours later, when police lifted the veil of censorship they had clamped over the proceedings while unraveling conflicting details, a chapter heretofore unwritten in the annals of this residential community unfolded.

Involved were "private eyes," photographers and lawyers. One of the detectives was shot five times by Mrs. Barbara Johnson, 31, who told police that she acted in self-defense when the intruder tried to drag her out of bed. The entire incident was precipitated, police said, by Mrs. Johnson's estranged husband, J. Seward Johnson Jr. 32, in an attempt to obtain evidence against her for divorce proceedings.

Physical violence in varying degrees was suffered by five of the participants, one of whom a dog. The only seriously injured individual was a 50-year-old representative of the Essex Investigating Bureau, the Newark firm which Mr. Johnson retained to enter his former home in the pre-dawn action.

Shot twice in the head, and in the stomach, hip and back was Harvey D. Blount of East Orange. The weapon, a .22 calibre target pistol, was kept by Mrs. Johnson near her bed. Blount was taken to Princeton Hospital and underwent surgery that morning. At the height of the conflagration, they tolled the hour at 7 a.m.

Other Injuries. Also admitted to the hospital was Walter Barnard, 28, of Skillman, a bookkeeper-secretary for Mr. Johnson who required six stitches in his head after battling the "invaders." Mr. Barnard was listed by police as living at the Cleveland Lane address. Bruised and scratched in the scuffling was Irving Potts, 31, of 28 Wilton Street, who police said was also living at the Johnson house while cataloging a ceramic bird collection.

Mrs. Johnson, who jumped from her bedroom window to the ground about ten feet below after the shooting and ran to a neighbor's house, said she was scratched and bruised by Mr. Blount. Fifth victim of the raid was Mrs. Johnson's bulldog, who was reportedly felled by ammonia gas from a water pistol. The Mercer County SPCA, its attention called to this facet of the case by Alan W. Richards of the Princeton-Kingston Road, has announced its intention to prosecute the raiders "to the full extent of the law." Police report, however, that the evidence in this man-dog case may be insufficient.

What Happened? Mrs. Johnson was scheduled to be given a preliminary hearing this Wednesday afternoon in Borough Hall by Magistrate Theodore T. Tamm, Jr. If the case goes to trial, it will do so in Trenton following indictment by the grand jury.

Until such testimony is given, Police Chief Peter J. McCrohan and members of his department who investigated have reconstructed events in this fashion:

Mrs. Johnson, Mr. Barnard, Mr. Potts and Mrs. Johnson's 14 and 2-year-old sons were asleep when the raiding party gathered outside sometime after 3 a.m. Led by Mr. Blount, they broke open a rear door in the house, and he was the first to enter Mrs. Johnson's bedroom.

Mr. Johnson and two lawyers, Nicholas Politan and James Cheeki, both of Lynd-nurst, remained outside until they heard shots fired. Shortly thereafter, both Mrs. Johnson, from a neighbor's house, and Mr. Barnard from the Johnson house telephoned the police to request assistance.

The charge against Mrs. Johnson is atrocious assault and battery, which police say is mandatory when gun wounds are inflicted by one person on another. Pending Wednesday's hearing, she has been released in custody of her lawyer, Saul Zucker of Newark. All of the others present are being held as material witnesses, but police say that the question of whether charges are placed against them is up to Mrs. Johnson. After conferring with her attorney on Tuesday, Chief McCrohan said that "Mrs. Johnson plans to charge all of those who took part in the raid with atrocious assault and battery, possibly including her husband."

J. Seward Johnson Jr. is the son of the vice-president of Johnson and Johnson, New Brunswick drug firm. His uncle, Robert W. Johnson, a Princeton resident, is chairman of the board.

WOMAN DIES IN FIRE

At Princeton Junction. Mrs. Patricia Ann O'Brien, 39, died in a Saturday morning fire which destroyed her split-level home at 6 Canoe Brook Drive, Princeton Junction. Her husband, Paul S. O'Brien, and a house-guest, Theodore Robinson of Philadelphia, escaped by jumping from a window on the upper level of the wood frame house. Mr. O'Brien said his wife approached the window to do likewise but staggered back into the room from fright.

Mr. O'Brien said he had jumped first to reassure Mrs. O'Brien that she would not be harmed by the fall. According to the state police, smoke and heat prevented Mr. O'Brien or Mr. Robinson from re-entering the house.

Mrs. O'Brien's body was found by firemen in the home's master bedroom. The $20,000 dwelling was declared a total loss. Firemen from the Junction and Penns Neck were dispatched at 3:20 a.m. when an alarm was turned in by a neighbor.

Firemen battled the blaze for an hour, remaining on the scene for several more. Mr. O'Brien, employed in the radio business, purchased the house three years ago.

Employed at Museum. Mrs. O'Brien, a native of Peapack, was an administrative assistant at the State Museum in Trenton. She was graduated from Princeton High School in 1941 and had attended William and Mary and Douglass Colleges.

She was secretary of the N.J. Geological Society and was a member of the West Windsor Planning Board.

In addition to her husband, she is survived by her mother, Mrs. Helen J. Harding, two sisters, Mrs. James G. Robinson and Mrs. Richard G. Lamb, all of Princeton; and her grandfather, Harry R. Josten of Westfield.

A private service was held at the Kimble Funeral Home, 1 Hamilton Avenue, with the Rev. Donald Meisel of the First Presbyterian Church officiating. Interment followed in Princeton Cemetery.

BOROUGH TAKES UP 21

As Local Rate Decreases. A five-cent decrease in the Borough's local tax rate is estimated for 1963 but the combined local, school and county tax rate will be $7.23, or 21 cents more than last year's.

The estimated budget, introduced by Borough Council last Thursday, is $1,152,230—up $40,984 over last year.

In 1962, the County added 62 cents to the estimated rate by lowering Trenton's share of the costs of County government and raising the municipalities' share. Word on the 1963 County tax rate is expected in about six weeks. Meantime, Council has scheduled a public hearing for 8 p.m. March 12.

The estimated tax rate of $7.23 includes $3.44 school tax, $2.04 estimated county tax, and $1.75 municipal tax. In 1962, the breakdown was $3.14 schools, $2.07 County and $1.80 municipal.

And if rising temperatures hadn't brought rain? The answer: eight inches of snow would have covered these parts by Tuesday afternoon.

Cold, generally cloudy weather is the forecast for the next few days, with the temperature below freezing more often than not. Heavy precipitation is not, however, a part of the immediate picture.

contributed to the decrease in the local tax were: the fully amortized 1937 bond issue for sewers and incinerators, which resulted in $16,000 less for bond payments, and the high rate of tax collections which resulted in lowering the reserve for uncollected taxes by $14,000.

"Pretty Good." Borough Administrator Robert M. Cheney called the estimated tax "pretty good, considering that we have only a $273,900 increase in rateables in the Borough while Princeton Township went up almost $7 million."

Anticipated revenues total $712,987—$18,000 above last year. This leaves $439,243 to be raised by taxation, about $6,000 less than in 1962.

Incoming funds will include "donations" of $10,000 from Princeton University, $5,500 from Princeton Theological Seminary and $2,000 from Westminster Choir College, on tax-exempt property.

Council has budgeted $16,000 additional for three percent salary increases, $40,000 for sewers, road resurfacing, trucks, a police car and a graphotype machine for the tax office, $30,000 for garbage collection ($5,000 more than last year), $2,000 for the Borough Township combined services study, $5,000 for the re-evaluation of the study, $500 to the Princeton First Aid and Rescue Squad Building Fund.

Other appropriations include the Borough's estimated shares in of the new public library, the cost of the Hatrop property, Community Park recreation program and about $2,000 towards the Avalon Place-Bayard Lane traffic fight.

Borough-Township arrangements affecting the budget include a Fire Department agreement, to be reviewed in three years, whereby the Borough pays 42 percent of the costs and the Township 58 percent. Library operating costs, to be reviewed yearly, are estimated on a usage basis.

Borough rateables now total $24,110,000. Taxes are figured by the Borough at 35 1/3 per cent of true value.

THE BOY: When "The Fantasticks" returns to McCarter this weekend, the part of The Boy will once again be played by Gino Corfatti, who appeared in the same role last fall. He is a member of the theatre's professional repertory company.

News Of The THEATRES

CONFORTI CAVORTS
In "Fantasticks," remembered fondly as the nice boy next door who wanted to go out and see the world, Gino Corfatti will return to McCarter Theatre this weekend in the musical, "The Fantasticks," playing another engagement at Princeton after a highly successful run here last fall. A versatile actor of the kind so valuable to a repertory company, Conforti is currently playing Casca in the McCarter production of "Julius Caesar" before student audiences. Last season, he played "Shakespeare's Dromion of Syracuse" in "The Comedy of Errors" and almost caused the theatre itself to collapse with laughter.

Around the end of February, Conforti will go into rehearsal for a new Broadway musical, "She Loves Me," starring Barbara Cook and directed by Hal Prince. "The Fantasticks" will be given this Friday and Saturday at 8:30 and this Saturday at 2:30. TOWN TOPICS reviewer wrote last fall that "The Fantasticks" is a "delightfully comic show, much too good to miss . . . a production with pace, color, imagination and verve."

CURTAIN TIME . . .
Moliere to Open. The comic actor Dom de Luscign will play the leading role of the gullied and gullible merchant, Monsieur Jourdain, when the curtain goes up on McCarter Theatre's new spring season opener, Moliere's "Le Bourgeois Gentilhomme."
Opening night is next Thursday at 7:30 p.m. The Moliere comedy will be given in English.

Don Driver, who directed "The Comedy of Errors" last fall, has directed the Moliere as a knockout farce, taking full advantage of the comic situations in Moliere's story.

about a Parisian tradesman who wants, above all, to be a gentleman.
Laurence Luckiehill, last seen here as Calista, will play Cleonte, who loves M. Jourdain's pretty daughter, Lucile. She herself will be played by Judy Guyll.
Barbara Cason will play Madame Jourdain, a hard-headed woman married to a fool, and Carol Teitel will play Jourdain's saucy maid-servant, Nicole. John Wynne-Evans will be Cleonte's manservant.

Lloyd Battista will be the Count, Ronnie Claire Edwards will be a Marquise, and Gwyn Evans, Keith Herrington, George Reinhold and David Hooks will play supporting roles.
Hough Hardy has designed the set, Hal George the costumes, and V. C. Fugua the lighting. The play will be given five times during February and March.

BRITTEN OPERA GIVEN
Headed at McCarter, on Thursday evening, February 7 at McCarter Theatre, a company headed by Patricia Neway and conducted by Charles Wilson presented Benjamin Britten's opera, "The Turn of the Screw," with a libretto by Myfanwy Piper based on the celebrated story of Henry James. In addition to Miss Neway as the Governess, the cast included Richard Cassilly as Peter Quint, Bruce Farnham and Rita Living as the children Miles and Flora, Beverly Evans as Mrs. Jessel, Maria Kovs as Mrs. Grose, and Edward Zimmerman as the Prologue. No credits were given for stage direction or set design, but this was essentially the production given by the New York City Opera a year ago.

In the best of all possible worlds, we should probably have heard "The Turn of the Screw" long ago—but since it had to wait nearly seven years for its first American performance, we are no doubt extremely fortunate to have a production brought right to our front doors. It is an important and highly successful work by a major composer. The works are very seldom heard on these shores, possibly because he has managed consistently to avoid flashier, more flashy trends in contemporary music.

The primary strength of "The Turn of the Screw" rests upon its high degree of craftsmanship—most particularly as manifested in the inspired intensity or ingenious inspiration (if you prefer) of the basic structure of theme and variations, which, in retrospect, seems not merely ingenious but also inevitable. In no other contemporary opera known to this writer is the musical structure so closely bound to dramatic action, and the craftsman pays dividends ten-fold as the climax approaches and all the pieces of the structure fit into place.

Last Thursday's performance was, in general, an effective presentation of an impressive opera, if falling short, in almost every respect, of the standards set by the English Opera Group in its performances under the composer's direction. No doubt some of the drawbacks (especially such visual matters as the erratic and unsuitable lighting) could be traced to the problems inherent in touring opera production, and certainly others are the result of hurdles set up by the composer—most obviously, the two very important parts for children, and the tenor part which was made for a particular virtuoso singer. These latter problems were handled with as much success as can be expected, and with more than that in the case of young Mr. Zaharades, whose impersonation of Miles is much improved over his New York performance over a year ago (although he still has difficulty in making himself heard).

The dramatic strengths of Miss Neway's art are well-known and obvious, but it is unfortunate that she finds it desirable or necessary to resort to parlando effects on numerous occasions: this prediction, combined with much uncertain intonation, managed to obscure a number of important points. The other singers were much more satisfactory in this respect, and all were effective in projecting the text; the orchestra, on the other hand, was no more than barely competent, although the conductor worked hard at making bricks from straw.

The stage design used in the present production does not seem an altogether satisfactory solution of the problem of multiple scene changes, especially because it forces so many scenes to be played before a scrim, in a very shallow playing area, and somehow contrives to give the impression that the ghosts inhabit subterranean caverns rather than the air. The addition of a "spook" scene during the variation beginning the second act is an innovation not to be admired, especially when it is staged in such flagrant disregard of the musical content of the Interlude. However, none of this managed to obscure the essential strengths of the work, and we are grateful to Miss Neway and her backers for what they have done; they could, no doubt, be making more money with a touring company of "Tosca", and it is to their credit that they chose "The Turn of the Screw" instead.

PROUST FILM SET

At University. A film portrait of novelist Marcel Proust is seen through the eyes of his friends and contemporaries will be shown at 8 p.m. Wednesday in McCosh 10. Admission is free.

Proust, tel que je l'ai connu was produced by RFF, the French radio and television system, and has been widely acclaimed. Its Princeton showing is sponsored by the Department of Romance Languages and Literatures.

PLAYHOUSE

Who's Got The Action? (now playing): Things get humorous by complicated, but in essence the film concerns Lana Turner as the wife of well-to-do lawyer Dean Martin. She becomes angry when she discovers that Dean is more interested in horses than in her. With the help of Eddie Albert, Lana decides to win back her husband, who's a steady loser, by secretly taking his belts herself. Dean begins to win at tremendous odds. Come criminal czar, Walter Matthau, hustles to find out "who's got the action" away from him. Comment: guys and gags.

PRINCE

Sodom and Gomorrah (now playing) is a spectacular chronicle of the Biblical cities of vice. Sodom and Gomorrah, which several thousand years ago were cast into ruin and complete destruction at the hand of a wrathful God.

Stewart Granger makes a plausible and certainly handsome Lot, the Hebrew leader who led his people to the Jordan. Anouk Aimee is the beautiful and vicious Queen Bera, who revels in sin and corruption and the spilling of helpless blood. Pier Angeli is the ruler's former slave who becomes Lot's wife, and Stanley Baker is the queen's brother, who conspires with the Heli-mite tribe to overthrow his sister.

The ruler permits Lot and his people to sojourn on the barren lands they occupy near the cities, as a buffer between them and the Heli-mites. The Hebrew camp becomes a sanctuary for refugees from Sodom and Gomorrah. There is a spectacular battle scene when the Heli-mites attack the Hebrew camp, an interlude when the Hebrews move into Sodom, adopting the ways of the city, and an ensuing, thunderous destruction of the wicked cities. Comment: two-and-one-half-hour spectacle.

GARDEN

The Password Is Courage (now playing) is a suspense-laden film based on the true experiences of a British war hero, Charles Coward. He was a prisoner of the Germans from 1940 to 1945, but was so resourceful in his attempts to escape and in tormenting his captors that his name became a household word in England. British actor Dirk Bogarde plays the role of Sergeant Major Coward for all it is worth. In point of fact, Coward, who was captured in France, succeeded in setting free to a passing munitions train which he was taken to camp. He spent most of his time organizing prison escapes, fighting out against the enemy and recaptured six times. In chief support of Bogarde are Alfred Lynch, as a fellow prisoner and chief aide, and Maria Perschy, a pretty Viennese actress, as a member of the Polish underground. Comment: extraordinary prisoner-of-war drama.

IT'S NEW To Us

FREE-FOUR!

Those Van Zandt Pancakes. Each year, just when winter seems at its lowest and coldest ebb, Van Zandt's announces its annual fifth, this year! Open House and immediately you begin to think of melting snows and spring, sun, of ball now, but may be crumbly enough to plow before long, of new garden tractors and seed bins and freezers to store the bounty that lies ahead.

This year, the Blawenburg store will hold its Washington's Birthday Open House on Saturday, February 23, Time: 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. As usual, there will be free pancakes, sizzling sausages and hot coffee, served at long tables inside the big show-room, right next to the International Cub Cadet and the Toro rotary mower.

Van Zandt's has been moving the furniture around since the last Open House. Hardware is all together at the east end of the store, farm equipment and appliances all together at the other end. Here you'll find the latest in 1963 garden and farm equipment, and if some of it seems very much like the 1962 line, it is because 1962 was so good there was no need to change! International's Cub Cadet, that chuffing little tractor that makes even the ladies want to be farmers, comes with rotary mowers, plow, cultivator, trailer cart, rotary tiller, lawn sweeper, rake, roller and fertilizer attachments. Buy a new attachment every year, and see how your garden grows.

Toro specializes in rotary and reel mowers, and a thing called a power handle, which is an all-purpose machine you can employ for mowing, gardening, pumping water—anything.

We were interested, by the way, in Toro's institutional mowers, designed for campuses and the larger swards around town.

Deeco batteries to empower all these things are available at Van Zandt's, too; in fact, you can buy a battery for anything from a flashlight on up. And while you're in this part of the store, don't fail to examine the new tire-changing machine for cars that have run afoul of a ten-penny nail.

The machine is a look-no-hands device that takes the tire off the rim and puts the new one on, mostly on a push-button basis. Does about 90 percent of the work, Van Zandt's says.

Firestone offers, during what's left of February, a sale on regular tires for spring and summer use. You can even pick up bike tires at this sale. Appliances at the Blawenburg store come from Philco as always: refrigerators and freezers, and portable TVs. You may like the two-door refrigerator, your neighbor may prefer the single door model. Freezers could be upright or chest styles, and of course both come in a variety of sizes. Even if it isn't your year for a freezer, you'll need one of the hundreds of hand-tools, racked up right before your eyes, as you walk in the door on a red-painted rack 20 feet long. We'll see you later, we're in line for those pancakes.

MUSIC FOR ROUTE ONE

Esley organs are the pride of the new Farrington Music Center on Route One. Starting at $399.95 and going "on up," these plug-in-organs are made for people who don't know how to play, but would like to very much.

Chords well up when you press a button—"try the dominant seventh and see what happens"—numbers above the keys correspond to numbers in an instruction book, so that even Johnny One Note can't go wrong.

Some models, of course, are more advanced, with two manuals and a pedal system, but even here, the emphasis is on ease of learning for people who are not familiar with music. By using the appropriate stops, you can make the organ sound like a music box, a Baroque organ from the time of Bach, or just a straightforward cocktail-lounge entertainment instrument. Fascinating to play around with—go see for yourself.

know a quarter note from a bank note, they've got books to show you the difference.

At the moment, Farrington's is a good place to shop for a reconditioned piano; before long, you may shop here also for new Jansen pianos, by a firm that makes a low-priced student piano at $499 and goes on from there to about $1,000.

Musicians who are shy of those great big instruments may settle for a frisky little accordion like the one hanging on the wall, or a guitar (electric or folk) like any of the models arranged around the store. Exploring in the display case, we found practice pads for drummers with sensitive neighbors, drum heads, violin strings, resin and manuscript paper for little boys named Johann Sebastian. Music books are here by the score. If you'll excuse the lapse, we were rather taken with the Easy Trombone Solo and a volume called "A Fine Kettle of Polk Songs." Lawrence Welk's Favorites Polkas are here, too, and "A Tune A Day for Clarinet."

Purists will head for the Schürmer collection, and the familiar yellow volumes of Bartok, Chopin, Czerny. It's fun to see "19 Mozart Sonatas" next to all that gutta music, and it just goes to show that music may well be a universal language, after all.

Along with the organs, guitars and violin pegs, Farrington's has a pleasing display of pictures done by various artists who live in this part of the world. These will change from time to time as artists bring in their most recent accomplishments. There may even be one-man shows, if things work out that way.

KNOW A BRIDE?

Crestal and China Time Eager to help the bride and to helped friend who wonders what to give, the Town Shop on Palmer Square has brought together some fine china and crystal for all the spring's prettiest brides.

Royal Worcester's Regency, with its sage of cobalt pattern finely banded with gold and grey, is a popular pattern in this shop, followed closely by Cumberland, with its same gold leaves and cobalt blue in traditional pattern.

Snowflake is a pure white bone china whose sparkling border relieves the austerity of the white. Another kind of white comes from the Italian house of Richard Ginori, with red and gold border royal or green, if you prefer.

You'll like the can-shaped cup and saucer, "Can-shape" is certainly a pedestrian way of describing this handsome cup, but that's what they call it. You might refer to it as a cylinder, except that it's wider and shorter than the word cylinder might lead you to believe.

A Limoges pattern, Malmston, has little gold diamonds against a cream ground, and Hawthorn, another Limoges, has a raised white-on-white pattern taken from a china designed in 1780 and now in the Louvre. Another 18th century pattern, this one from a 1788 Sevres design is a Morning Glory breakfast set with an unusual lemon colored border and, of course, the delicate blue flowers.

Town Shop has these fine chinas from $19.75 a place setting, on up as high as you care to go.

On the crystal shelf, there are classic pieces by Lalique, Baccarat and Stuart, including goblets, champagnes and wines. Lalique has the slimmest stem in town, Baccarat shows off Lorraine, with a cut pattern up from the bottom, and Stuart shows Savoy, with an even more intricate pattern of faceting.

Waterford is represented by pitchers, decanters and vases. One of the most impressive sets is Lalique's desert bowl with its complementary plates. Shallow and clear, the bowl has a two-inch wide collar of frosted geranium leaves whose overlapping makes a gently scalloped edge. Clear glass dessert plates repeat the frosted leaf border. What a thank-you note you'll get for this one!

News Of The Theatres

with music sound track added. Lloyd's comic role is that of a shy, slender man with horn-rimmed glasses and a straw hat who draws a fine line between laughter and heart-stopping suspense.

The film includes a long sequence from "Hot Water" in which Lloyd proves how many laughs can be gotten from bringing home an armful of groceries, including a live turkey. Innocence in the face of danger is the theme of the Mexican revolution scenes from "Why Worry?" and then the chase sequences which have become screen classics from "Girl Sisy" and "Professor Beware" show the comic's mastery of this art. Comment: rolling-in-the-asides laughter. "Great Expectations," the other half of the double bill, stars Alec Guinness, John Mills, Jean Simmons and Valerie Hobson in an extremely well done film translation of Dickens' classic.

Red Shoes (Sun. thru Tues.) The great British ballet film stars Maira Shearer, Leonid Massine, Robert Helpmann and Ludmilla Tcherina.

Presented in the "Great Films Series," the run is extended to include Monday and Tuesday. There will be only one performance each night—at 7 p.m. on Sunday, 8 p.m. Monday and Tuesday.

MEETING PLANNED

By University Alumni. The 98th annual mid-winter meeting of the Princeton University National Alumni Association will be held here Saturday.

More than 1,000 persons are expected, with an advance guard of 200 to take part in preceptuals in the university's new Engineering Quadrangle. The small discussion groups, modeled on those in which students participate, will deal with the topic of the "two cultures" that of the scientist and non-scientist.

Husbands and wives have been invited to attend the preceptuals on the condition that they have completed advance reading assignments. The program, under the direction of A. Walton Litz, associate professor of English, will include 12 preceptuals.

The discussion will meet at 10:45 a.m. and will last for 50 minutes. De an J. Merrill Knapp will deliver introductory statements at 10 in the faculty lounge.

Also included in the morning activities is a guided tour of the quadrangle. Following the luncheon in Dillon Gymnasium, President Robert F. Galien will present the Woodrow Wilson Award to an alumnus and the M. Taylor Pyne Honor prize to an undergraduate.

Following the award of the Freshman Honor Prize, the reports on the University Fund and Annual Giving, nominees for alumni trustees will be announced. The meeting will conclude with a panel discussion on engineering at Princeton led by Joseph C. Elgin, dean of the school of engineering and applied science.

BUILDING APPROVED

For University. The green light was given by Borough Council Tuesday night to two University projects: two new ordinances were introduced, and negotiations for Jackson Street re-location were renewed.

Princeton University has been granted the necessary variances to build its seven-story administration building at College Road and University Place. It also received permission to divide the parking area behind the Princeton University Press into a walkway and a parcel to be conveyed to Dial Lodge. Dial Lodge has given up a portion of its lot for the Woodrow Wilson School complex.

Ordinances. With the Dutch elm blight in mind, the Borough had written an ordinance authorizing it to destroy diseased or dying trees if the owner takes no action within ten days of notice. Costs of removal by the Borough will be added to taxes. A fine of $200 maximum is set for non-cooperative owners.

Amendments to the Borough ordinances have been proposed to ban used car lots, public garages or gas stations within 150 feet of residential districts. Used car lots now within such an area must be fenced off by walls or tight fencing at least eight feet high. The public hearings are set for 8 p.m., March 12.

Jackson Street. Councilman William W. Walker announced that negotiations with Palmer Square, Inc., property owners on Jackson Street, have been completed. When the street is re-located, there will be no zigzag for drivers coming out of Witherspoon Street to Jackson. The Borough will maintain properties on the three corners where Witherspoon, Witherspoon and Jackson meet. The cemetery is on the fourth corner.

The Mayor and Council are assisting in the relocation of the occupants of several Jackson Street houses. Council will now negotiate with the elders of First Baptist Church for the purchase of the pastor's garage portion of the land.

RT. 206 POLE SNAPPED

By Stolen-Car Driver. A Public Service power pole on Route 206 between Ewing Street and Arden Road was snapped Monday night by a stolen car whose driver then fled the scene. Township police report the downed wires shorted and caught fire.

Witnesses were reported to have seen the driver, who was picked up by a passing motorist.

WHAT ABOUT PRR?
Planning Board Ponders.
Meeting in executive session
Monday night, the Township Planning Board conferred with representatives of the University about the proposed Pennsylvania Railroad station shift.
Present for the University were Edgar M. Gemmell, administrative vice-president of the University; Ricardo Mestres, University treasurer;
Samuel Frothingham and John Moran.

Gerald Breese, Planning Board chairman, said that the Board would meet, again in executive session, to consider the matter further.
At last week's public meeting, the Borough Planning Board approved the relocation of the station "in principle."

Most of the land involved lies in the Township.

$25,000 RAISED

For First Aid Squad. Some $25,000 has been collected toward a goal of $50,000 in a building fund campaign conducted by the Princeton First Aid and Rescue Squad.

The figures were announced by Mayors Fairman and Patterson, who said that the organization "is a most important agency in the Princeton community." They noted in their joint statement that "unfortunately, it often takes serious illnesses in one's own family to appreciate the Squad's importance."

They added that the Squad plans to recanvass those who have not yet contributed to the building fund. About ten percent of the residents to whom requests were mailed have responded. The Princeton mayors urged those who have not given to do so by sending a check made out to the First Aid and Rescue Squad, P.O.
Box 529.

"Oversight" Corrected

To the Editor of Town Topics: It seems to me a serious oversight that last week's TOWN TOPICS report on the introduction of the Princeton Township municipal budget for 1963 ignored the most salient and noteworthy feature of this important piece of public business. This is that the Township municipal tax rate will be reduced by 4.7 points per $100 of assessed value in 1963.

No amount of intermingling of the Township school district budget requirements and tax rate and the Mercer County budget requirements and tax rate—over neither of which the Township Committee has the slightest control—can obscure the fact just stated. Yet this seems to me to be the net effect of your otherwise detailed story.

In these days of constantly rising taxes at all levels of government, it is no longer news when at least one taxing authority manages to order its affairs and conduct the public business in such a way that its rate of taxation, and the consequent burden on the individual taxpayer, is reduced rather than increased?

Editor's Note: TOWN TOPICS agrees with Committee member Wilson that it is news when a component part of the overall rate is reduced, did not intend by its omission to imply any lack of accomplishment on the governing body's part in this era of spiraling costs.

"Clinical, Surgical Reviews." To the Editor of Town Topics: This letter is to no interested attack on your music critic. As president of the Princeton Symphony and chairman of the Concerts Committee, I am bound to be an interested party, and a prejudiced one as well. For this reason, I should be much happier not to write it, especially as I esteem your critic, David Hamilton, both as a person and as a musician.

But I begin to feel that your "Music In Princeton" reviews are turning into an abattoir in which reputations are up for slaughter. I do not think that visiting artists are likely to be damaged except perhaps in their feelings but when the Princeton Symphony receives a review in which I read perhaps unjustly between the lines, an almost personal animosity towards our musical director, Nicholas Harsanyi, who has done so much for the cause of music in Princeton, I cannot remain silent any longer.

There is no point, in this column, in contesting all Mr. Hamilton's opinions except that of John Harbison's composition, which is a fine piece of music indeed but I am baffled by his comment on the Grieg Concerto. He writes: "I was curious that, in a reading which made its greatest effects in the more bombastic passages, one of the most obvious effects—the sudden attack into the finale on the heels of the Adagio's last chord—should have been so rudely ignored."

It is he suggesting that Mr. Harsanyi should have gone fortissimo into the opening bars of the finale, which are marked "pianissimo" in the score? Or is he referring to Mr. Masselos' piano entrance, which certainly registered as fortissimo in my ears?

I am not alone in wondering about Mr. Hamilton's motivations, in his consistently carping reviews. I am sure that he has the highest musical ideals, and perhaps the answer is that such ideals are rarely satisfied in the concert hall. Those who are not themselves performing artists of any competence, and who spend much of their time in the realm of the phonograph record, may be unsympathetic to the very human problems which occur in every live performance. I wish him well as a person, but begin to wish he would take his talents elsewhere: would, for example, go to New York and tell the audiences there what boobies they are to enjoy their concerts. I think I express the sense of the meeting which consists of the Princeton audience in saying that we are heartily sick of his clinical, surgical reviews.

DAVID H. BLAIR, JR.
343 Jefferson Road

Readers Who Don't "Read."

To the Editor of Town Topics: I regret you have some "readers who do not, or will not, read" and who are perhaps more anxious to rush into tax and rate a prejudice than to take a clear eye on an issue. It is doubtful any of us need to be reminded of a citizen's question of public expenditure. But perhaps a reminder is in order that a citizen has a prior obligation to examine the validity of a possible protest and to bear clearly in mind the potential consequences to others. In short, the protest must be responsible.

Engaging in a public debate on the relative merits of "businessmen" is completely irrelevant to the issue at point, which is the educational welfare of the children of our community. Rather than hold up a reluctant and unjustifiably protesting taxpayer (whatever his business or profession) as an example to our children of what is required in today's world, I would point to our skilled, understanding, hard-working, and underpaid teachers, our concerned, unending and unpaid school boards—to all those taxpayers who know that even if it involves sacrifice (and it may not), it is both a privilege and an obligation to make certain every child in the community is given an educational foundation of the highest possible quality. (Mrs.) INGRID O. ROSE
92 Clover Lane

Editor's Note: Mrs. Rose is referring to a letter in last week's "Mailbox" column which was, in turn, replying to a previous letter written by Mrs. Rose. In last week's letter, Mrs. G. W. Bishop, in discussing the Township school budget hearing, had written: "I think our children need the example of the businessmen in our midst who are able to look at a sticky issue objectively and fearlessly." She also said, "Any citizen has a right to question public expenditure. It is not our tradition to make him feel cheap for doing so."

What's on the Shelf?

Why any two-year old would want a swig from a bottle of laundry bleach is, of course, a mystery. But there it is.

Furniture polish seems equally unpalatable, but toddlers have been known to drink it right down without a clenser. Granules of drain cleaner burn the minute they go on a tongue, and yet a four-year-old will toss a handful into his mouth as though they were salted peanuts.

Parents are much too casual about the bottles and cans they leave around the house, says the Accident Dispensary at Princeton Hospital, and just because it would never occur to mother to drink cleaning fluid, don't count on that three-year-old.

Put household preparations where children can't reach them.

Topics Of The Town

NO FATALITIES

At Poison Control Center. "They taste just like candy." That's what mother had said when Bobby was sick and she handed him the little orange thing to eat.

It was like candy, too, and here was a whole bottle full, right next to Bobby's toilet brush. He took the bottle down from the medicine chest shelf, unscrewed the top and poured a palmful of the little orange candies out into his hand.

Somehow, all of them to gether didn't taste quite as good as one alone, but Bobby swallowed them all anyway.

I TOOK TOO MANY ASPIRIN: An overdose of aspirin, the prescription pain meant for Daddy, a quick gulp of some household product—these are the accidents that bring the most children to Princeton Hospital's Poison Control Center. When this happens, it's the stomach pump to the rescue, as shown here. Tina Stride of the hospital staff prepares to pump out a sadder and wiser young man. (He's just pretending for the benefit of the photographer.)

The candy, of course, was baby aspirin. Bobby's venture into the medicine chest landed him in the Accident Dispensary of Princeton Hospital, where the Poison Control Center was ready to move into instant action.

Set up in the fall of 1958, the center handles about 75 poison cases a year. In 1962, and has achieved, so far, a 100 percent record of success; there has not been a single poison fatality at the hospital since the Center was established.

"I Feel Sick! About half the patients treated at the Center are children, most of whom have had an overdose of aspirin. Baby aspirin in particular is a villainous offender because it does taste a little bit like candy, and because sick children are so often coaxed into taking it by a soothing maternal voice saying, 'It's candy, dear.'"

Carelessly handled prescription drugs are next in line. Parents don't always realize that the tranquilizer or the antihistamine, geared to an adult constitution, may be much more powerful than a child's body can handle, especially when the child takes several tablets to the adult's single dose.

The Accident Dispensary recalls one young child who took an adult hypertensive drug and was critically ill for many weeks.

Next on the danger list for children are the bottles from the broom closet (see box), and the cans and packages in the garage. Earlier in the winter, a small Princeton resident drank half a cup of gasoline from a can she found in her father's garage, and only a few months before, a four-year old girl drank some kerosene from the family's storage can.

It's no use asking why a child would want to drink kerosene once he got a good whiff of it, the hospital points out. Nor is it particularly helpful to ask what got into the four- and five-year old sisters who eat wisteria beans from the garden bin. The fact is that kids just will do these things, and the best preventive is the lock and key.

Question of the Week

Question: To what famous person would you like to send a valentine this year and why?

Where asked: Nassau Street

Kathleen Caruso, 11, 31 Linden Lane, Nassau Street School: He's not living but I'd like to send one to Benjamin Franklin. He seemed to be quite a great person; he did a lot for the country.

Becky Wert, 10, 6 Hodge Road, Nassau Street School: Charles Lindbergh. Because we're studying him and I think he is a most interesting person.

Nancy Parsell, 11, 32 Jefferson Road, Nassau Street School: Can I send it to the President? He's my boyfriend.

Lloyd Kreuzer, 407-A Butler Avenue, graduate student, physicist, Khrushchev. Maybe this might indicate something to him. Maybe it might kind of a hint.

Mr. Albert Fiach, Random Road, speaker for the United Nations on specialized agencies in southeast Asia: Nehru. Having lived in India for six years, I thought that he's in such a difficult position right now, never having settled the Kashmir question and now with the Tibetan trouble on his border, he could use some happy thoughts.

Charles Farrington, 82 Overbrook Drive, lawyer and Democratic Assemblyman: With the permission of my wife, I would send a valentine to Virginia Woolf. Why? Because I love her.

Miss Eliza Smith, Yardley, Princeton secretary: Oh, I'd send it to John F. Kennedy. I think he's the most fabulous man in the world. I'm reading "The Making of a President" and I'm particularly hep on him right now.

Michael Mackintosh, sophomore at Parson's College, Iowa: To Liz Taylor for outstanding backfield play.

Lou Borgeniehl, Foulke Hall, Princeton University junior: Janet Margolin, the girl who starred in the movie, "David and Lisa." The film itself was an important step forward for American cinema. This girl—she is still young, only about 17—acted very well. She certainly added to the effectiveness of the film.

Miss Bertha Vargo, Titusville, secretary: Charles DeGaulle. It might soften him up a little bit.

Thomas Wood, Cranbury, bookkeeper for Saks Fifth Avenue, Nassau Street: It would have to be President Kennedy for the way he handled the Cuban affair and for the fact that he is also trying to reduce taxes.

CLOSED for the season
 REOPENING IN THE SPRING
PETERSON'S MARKET

Mrs. Donald Bond, 456 Snowden Lane, housewife: Ex-President Eisenhower. He has always been the idol of my admiration. I always felt the country was in such capable and competent hands when he was president. I always felt the economy was in good shape and the stock market was in no danger of fluctuating. And the cold war . . . we just didn't worry about it. National affairs were in balance and war was far, far away. The people were at peace. There was a feeling of security when he was president.

Thomas Ribich, 48 Humbert Street, graduate student in economics. The first person that occurs to me is Marilyn Monroe, because, I suppose, for the mild ray of hope she gave to the intellectuals in her short affair with Arthur Miller.

Miss Marilyn Wilson, Hopewell, professional assistant at ETS: John Updike, and with my valentine I would like to include a letter asking him some questions. I am very intrigued by his writing, particularly his latest novel, "The Centaur."

Miss Maureen Parks, Levittown, Pa., clerical worker for Benson & Benson, 33 Witherspoon Street: Pope John. I think he's a great man not only in the church but in the world. His opinions on worldwide affairs are very good, I feel.

Mehnerd Lander, 186 Laurel Circle, part owner of Marsh & Co.: Eisenhower—he's a real American. He was a good president.

Miss Maureen Olson, Chicago, Beloit University student, visiting Westminster Choir College: If Robert Frost hadn't just died, I would have sent one to him. He is my favorite American poet. If not my favorite among all, I admired him very much. I'm from Chicago and I enjoyed his poetry about New England, an area which I just love.

Mrs. Kitty Forward, 65 Erdman Avenue, housewife: President Kennedy because he has done such wonderful work for this country.

BUSINESS In Princeton

NAME CHANGED
By Tax Group. Tax Institute, Incorporated, has changed its name to Tax Institute of America.

Members of the 30-year-old national organization have two reasons: the erroneous impression that the Institute is local rather than nationwide, and the prevalence of university seminars held under the name of "tax institutes."

The Tax Institute of America devotes its energies to the collection of factual material relating to tax problems. In the 1930's, relief expenditures, property tax difficulties, and the wave of new state-imposed taxes were matters of concern. In the 1940's, war financing, federal debt policies, inflation control, excess profits taxation and veterans' benefits were major topics.

Local finance problems came to the fore in the 1950's with emphasis on financing education and highways. Fiscal administration is also a concern. Professor Dan T. Smith of the Harvard Graduate School of Business Administration and former Deputy to the Secretary of the Treasury, is president. Membership includes attorneys, corporations, economists, universities, government bureaus, and public officials.

PRINCETON BANK GROWS
Joins Nation's 700 Largest. Princeton Bank & Trust Company has joined the ranks of the 700 largest commercial banks in the United States. According to the "American Banker," PR&T places 69th among the 13,450 banks in the nation.

Deposits of $42,450,431 as of December 31, 1962, marked a record year. In 1961, deposits totaled $37,938,113 at the end of the year, placing the bank in 704th place.

COOK INSTALLED
By National Realtors. Real-estate Edmund D. Cook was installed as vice-president of the Institute of Real Estate Management at the mid-winter meeting of the Board of Governors in New Orleans. He will serve on the executive and admissions committees.

The Institute certifies property managers who have completed training and have obtained credits on experience in the real estate management field.

Mr. Cook, president of Edmund Cook & Company, has served as president of the New Jersey chapter and on the board of governors. He has been a certified property manager for the past 25 years. His firm is the only organization in the area which is accredited in real estate management by the Institute.

ers, Inc. are building three new luxury model homes on Washington Street in Rocky Hill. The new homes will be priced from $28,900 to $31,500.

In keeping with the 23 residences now occupied or being built at Princeton Ridge, the models will be of authentic colonial design. All will contain four bedrooms, large family rooms, two and a half baths, basements and two-car garages. Each plot will be one acre or larger and fully landscaped.

Princeton Ridge is located on a gently rolling hill with a view of the nearby Hopewell Valley and Sourland Mountains. Children in the development attend Princeton Borough schools. Additional information may be obtained by calling the builders at WA 1-2288.

CRATF ACCEPTED
By Trade Association. Craft Dry Cleaners of Princeton Junction, has been accepted for membership in the National Institute of Drycleaning, an educational and research foundation serving some 8,500 drycleaning plants in the US and abroad.

John R. Janick of Craft Dry Cleaners reports that he will receive information concerning new developments in fabrics, in cleaning procedures, and tips on fabric care to pass on to customers. The firm is also eligible for research tests and to enroll its employees in the training programs.

sent home. Chastened? Intimidated? by his experience with gastric lavage? Not necessarily.

Hospital records show that at least two children (brother and sister, probably on an "I dare you" spree) were back in the dispensary within the year, battling again with the stomach pump.

Adults, Too. The tragedy laid in situations like these is even more poignant in the records of the other 50 percent of the Poison Control Center's cases: the adults who have been liberally tried to end their lives.

Here, of course, it is deliberate overdose of sleeping tablets or tranquilizers. Sometimes the stomach pump may wait for emergency oxygen, if the victim has gone into shock, or for the Bennett respirator that actually breathes for the patient. (The respirator was the gift of Benjamin B. Levine and the late Mrs. Levine.)

Chronic alcoholics may turn up time and time again at the Poison Control Center, having taken overdoses of drugs during fits of depression. (Sleeping pills are more potent if they are taken by someone who has already had too much to drink, doctors say.)

Although the law requires police investigations of all Poisons taken by adults, these cases are kept in complete confidence by hospital authorities.

The Life-Giving Box. The Poison Control Center itself consists of a cabinet and a complete card file of common substances and their chemical composition. The cabinet stands against one wall of the dispensary, its contents sealed shut and an inventory taken after each use, so that it is always stocked for emergency.

Inside is the stomach pump and a row of emergency drugs. On top is a complete little library, including such titles as "Clinical Toxicology of Commercial Products" and "Poisonous Plants of the United States."

The card file, with its 1,500 entries, provides the Center with one of its quickest and most reliable weapons against poison. Here the nurse will find the commercial name of a certain fly-bait and all the ingredients contained in it. She can locate, at the move of a finger, a windshield cleaner and its ingredients, including the recommended treatment for anyone who has swallowed Nail polish is here, by brand name, and after-shave lotion, and the model "dope" that produces euphoria when it is inhaled (and possibly chemical pneumonia).

The toxic parts of plants are here, too, and just for comfort, certain common household products with the notation "no toxicity," a comment that can be a great relief to a frightened mother.

PREVENTION STRESSED

By Fire Chief Davison. "If, at any time, any citizen of the Borough or the Township has a fire safety problem or would like a private inspection of his home, please don't hesitate to call on us," Samuel G. Davison, chief of the Princeton Fire Department, said this week. "Few people in Princeton realize what you men in the department do besides fighting fires," the Chief added.

TRIPLE YOUR READING SPEED

WITH EXCELLENT COMPREHENSION AND RETENTION
YOU CAN READ 200-250 PAGES AN HOUR (1500 words per minute) using the ACCELERATED READING technique. Learn to read smoothly down the page instead of across each line word-by-word. This is NOT a skimming or scanning method; you definitely see and read every word.

The ACCELERATED READING technique can be effectively applied to textbooks and factual material, as well as to general reading. Students, executives, and professionals use the ACCELERATED READING technique to great advantage. No machines or gadgets whatsoever are used in learning this skill. Most graduates of the ACCELERATED READING course read 1500 to 2000 words per minute. Some read at 4000 words per minute. Be our guest at a 30-minute demonstration of ACCELERATED READING on Wednesday, February 20, at 7:30 P.M. at THE PRINCETON INN. Bring a book.

A special class in ACCELERATED READING will be taught in the Princeton area beginning on Wednesday, February 21. This class will meet each Wednesday evening from 7:15 to 9:45 for ten weeks.

Princeton's fire safety record to a year-round fire prevention program. A month-by-month outline of this extensive prevention program shows that: January, inspect all churches; February, all stores; April, Princeton University eating clubs and fire cleaning plants; May, service stations and garages; June, lumber yards, paper plants and bowling alleys; July, hotels, motels and camps; August, restaurants, theatres and public gathering places; September, schools; and November, post office and all public buildings. In October, the department stresses fire prevention in the home; in December, Christmas tree safety and home fires. It also cooperates with authorities in the annual fall clean up week in November.

Twice a year, the department holds fire drills in the schools and suggests corrections if necessary. Lectures, demonstrations and fire prevention literature are given to school classes at the fire house.

Chief Davidson pointed out that the firemen attend fire school, hold training drills once or twice a week and are trained to cope with any situation that may arise. "Most of the extra work is done on a fireman's own time. Your fire department in Princeton is always busy," he added.

SPORTS In Princeton

FROM SIMMER TO A BOIL

In Ivy Basketball Race. Three full weeks before the season ends, the Ivy Basketball League race has hit the boiling point. Not since 1955 has Penn, Columbia and Princeton finished in a three-way tie, with the Tigers going on to trim the Lions in the championship playoff after the latter has ousted Penn, has the picture been as thoroughly scrambled.

The escalators were in constant motion last weekend, with these results:

• Third-place Cornell won two at home and moved upward to first place with a 5-2 mark after having been 1-2 in mid-January.

• First-place Yale lost two at home and moved all the way down to a fourth-place tie after having been first as recently as Friday afternoon.

• Fifth-place Princeton was the only team to win two on the road last weekend, a tremendous achievement that guarantees at least a playoff berth if the Tigers can win their last six. If they do, another team can finish better than 11-3.

A Look Ahead. Whereas Princeton had to get outside help last week in order to bring Yale and Penn within range, now every team save Cornell has lost as many as the Tigers.

The Ithacans came to Dillon Gym on Friday, March 1, so if Bill van Breda Kuffs forces take that one and win their five others against the league's weaker teams, they can do no worse than finish in a first-place tie.

Actually, Cornell's current front-runners have far and away the toughest schedule left of the four teams most likely to have a shot at the title.

In addition to a home-and-home series with Yale, they must still visit Providence, where Brown upset Penn Saturday, and then finish the season with a trip to Dillon Gym and the Palestrans.

It is the same Yale-Cornell series that makes the future more rugged for the Elis than for Princeton or Penn. The latter two play the identical opponents in the next three weeks, and both are good bets to win them all.

These are the remaining schedules confronting the four top teams:

CORNELL: Feb. 15, at Yale; 16, at Brown; 22, Brown; 23, Yale; March 1, at Princeton; 2, at Penn; Blaine Wilson Madden, Feb. 24 game at Columbia.

PRINCETON: Feb. 15, Harvard; 18, Dartmouth; 22, at Dartmouth; 23, at Harvard; March 1, Cornell; 2, Columbia.

PENN: Feb. 15, Dartmouth; 16, Dartmouth; 22, at Harvard; 23, Dartmouth; March 1, Columbia; 2, Cornell.

YALE: Feb. 15, Cornell; 16, Columbia; 22, at Columbia; 23, at Harvard; 23, at Harvard.

Princeton will complete the season with 11-3 records and meet in a playoff during the week of March 2. Having been beaten twice last weekend on its home court, Yale does not appear to have the ability to win all of its remaining games, while Cornell, lower to Harvard and Dartmouth on a January road trip is equally unlikely to do as well as 11-3 in the face of remaining trips to New Haven, Providence, Princeton and Philadelphia.

If either the Quakers or the Ithacans stumble, it could be on the last weekend of the season to Cornell, even though the Ithacans will be east in the underdog role of visitors. They have the potential to stage such an upset; Harvard and Dartmouth do not, the unpredictability of Ivy League basketball notwithstanding.

Of the upcoming visitors to Dillon Gym, Harvard is somewhat the better of the two teams, having greater balance than Dartmouth and holding a pair of four-point victories this season over the Indians. The Crimson depends on 6-5 Dennis Lynch and 6-4 Bob Innan for its height and bases its hopes for victory on tight defensive play.

Dartmouth's basketball fortunes, which have a history of fluctuating widely, are at a low ebb. A dozen years ago, the Indians were deep in trouble but rose steadily to the point where they won Ivy championships in 1956, '58 and '59.

Now they are last again, with The Dartmouth, undergraduate player, calling for the firing of freshman coach Tony Lupien as the source of much of the difficulty because of his disinterested attitude and lack of knowledge of the sport. A year ago, Steve Spaniol was the league's leading scorer; this season, he has frequently sat on the bench and is averaging around 13 points per game. Captain Barry Ellison, Davis Blaine Wilson Madden and Sam Barton are others who will see action for the Indians.

FREEZE DOES THE TRICK

Against Brown and Yale. Extreme ability in freezing the ball to protect a slim lead in the closing minutes last week assured Princeton of two vital victories in the Ivy race. With 3:44 left at Providence, the Tigers built a slim 61-58 margin to a 71-63 verdict as Brown

BILL HAARLOW Basketball Player

A three-year veteran on the Princeton basketball team hit a cool spell last week and the Tigers had their troubles at the same time. It is more than coincidence that his return to form was marked by a pair of extremely valuable triumphs last weekend at Providence and New Haven. When he's right, Bill Haarlow invariably hits his double figures for the Tigers—the kind of scoring that supplements Bill Bradley's point totals to give Princeton the balance it needs. He has a variety of shots, can drive in well for a lay-up and his accurately from the side court if the opposition requires the Tigers to shoot over a zone.

At Providence, Haarlow helped get Princeton away to a fast start that matched hot Brown shooting on its own court. He made 10 points in the first 15 minutes but picked up his fourth personal almost as soon as the second half began. Withdrawn from action, he was available when Bill Howard fouled out with a couple of minutes to go, his ball handling helping the deep freeze that clinched the Tigers' victory.

ers to hit double figures in both games on the trip.

Son of a former star at the University of Chicago, Bill finds basketball runs in the family. Brother Bob is a starting member of the freshman team and has the ability to continue the family name at the varsity level for another three years. Before he graduates, Bill plans to leave his brother something to shoot at; he was a member of the championship squad here two years ago, and hopes to make it two out of three by helping the Tigers win the try title again this season.

team because the victim of a five-goal Indian uprising Saturday, losing 9 to 4. It was the skaters' 14th defeat of the season and their eighth in a row.

Ken Hall, now centering the first line with Gerry Skoning and Johnny Cook on the wings, caged two of Princeton's goals. Cook got one and was credited with three assists; Skoning was responsible for the fourth Tiger score.

Cook brought the visitors even at 1:51 of the third period, and the score remained deadlocked for the next five minutes. Dartmouth then found the target three times in the next 90 seconds, adding another pair before the game ended to achieve its first Ivy victory of the season at the Tigers expense.

Following the mid-week game in Baker Rink with Yale, Harvard's defeat of Princeton champions are on the schedule Saturday night at Cambridge. Next Tuesday will see the Tigers go to Philadelphia to play Penn, brand new to the sport, for the first time.

fouled repeatedly in an attempt to gain possession; and with 2:33 left at New Haven, the Tigers controlled play beautifully as they broke away from a 57-all tie and earned a 61-58 triumph that all but floored Yale as a defending champion.

In addition to generally good defensive play, the touring Orange and Black quitted again needed the good foul shooting that has meant so much to it all season. Yale became the sixth team to lose to Princeton this season after outscoring the Tigers from the floor, the victors showing a 20-19 deficit in field goals but sinking 22 free throws to 18 for the Elis.

Princeton topped the Blue despite Rick Kaminsky's return to the lineup, and despite the Blue sharpshooter's virtual point-a-minute performance early in the game. He hit six field goals in the first 16 minutes, but thereafter cooled off completely and fouled out with ten minutes left in the hectic contest.

Bill Bradley paced the Tigers as always with 23 points, almost evenly divided by halves, 12 and 11. Captain Art Hyland helped erase memories of the Dillon Gym loss to Yale with a 14-point performance that included the game-winning points: a 15-foot field goal and consecutive free throws in the final two minutes.

Yale erased a nine-point deficit (from 52-43 to 55-43) between the 8:03 and 5:30 marks of the second half, but never led in the game after the Tigers pulled up to an 18-all tie midway through the first period. The Elis played Princeton man-to-man, with Kaminsky on Bradley; Princeton used a 2-1-2 zone that froze Kaminsky's outside shooting before he fouled out guarding Bradley.

Twenty-four hours earlier at Providence, 6-7 Gene Barth of Brown made 29 points in a standout performance that came close to upending the Tigers before they ever got to their crucial contest with Yale. The Bruins trailed, 41-37, at the half, but held a couple of three-point leads after the intermission and enjoyed a 35-33 tie with six minutes left.

Valuable points contributed by sophomore Don Keith, Bradley and Hyland, plus a fine Princeton freeze, made the difference as the clock began to run out. The home team came as close as three points (66-63) with 90 seconds to go, but fine foul shooting which saw the Tigers make eight of their ten points from the free-throw line bailed them out. Next night, Brown used the same procedure to hold Penn at bay, edging the Quakers, 61-59, to throw the race into a four-way merry-go-round.

Records In Danger

Two all-time Princeton scoring records were in danger of being broken this week.

Johnny Cook of Kingston, all-time forward on the hockey team, made a goal and three assists against Dartmouth to bring his career total of 117 points to within two of a new Princeton mark. Expectations were that John McBride's record of 118 would be surpassed by Cook in Baker Rink against Yale, or at Harvard on Saturday.

Bill Bradley has 447 points in Princeton's first 17 basketball games this season. He needs a total of 53 against Harvard and Dartmouth this weekend to break the current mark of 501 held by Pete Campbell.

TWO FOR TWO

As Hun Advances in League. For the first time this season, the Hun School basketball team has won back-to-back contests. The Red and Black scored its double last week with victories over George School and Solebury, both Penn-Jersey League contests.

The two wins raised Hun's league record to 2-4 and 3-5 overall. "We're picking up," said Hun coach Bob Simpson. "Before, when we were not playing well at all, I didn't even think of where we stood in the league. Now we are looking forward to all our games. We have a big week coming up."

Three league games comprise Simpson's "big week." The week's biggest test for Hun occurred Wednesday afternoon when the Red and Black traveled to Pennington for a return game against undefeated Pennington School.

That will be followed by a return game Friday afternoon

In the Seminary gymnasium confident his players will defeat Germantown in their second and a road contest Tuesday with Bryn Athyn, which Hun defeated earlier in the campaign for its first victory administered by the Quakers.

Four In Double Figures.

The promising thing about Hun's easy 71-51 victory over Solebury Saturday, according to Simpson was "we had a fourth man in double figures."

In Princeton

CLEVELAND ORCHESTRA
Led by Seiji Ono, Tuesday evening, March 12, at McCarter Theatre, the fourth concert of the Princeton University Concerts presented the Cleveland Orchestra, under its present conductor, George Szell. The program included Mozart's Divertimento in D major, Tchaikovsky's Symphony No. 4, and the first Princeton performance of Borromeo's Concerto for Cello, and a work commissioned for the orchestra's fortieth anniversary, five movements, by that name. Mr. Blacher's work is "for Cleveland," to be performed, it shows off the orchestra's virtuosity to perfection, and the effect is not seriously dimmed by the fact that most of the composer's orchestral devices are less than original. It is smoothly professional, even slick, on the surface, and carefully calculated not to outwear its welcome (looking at this another way, you might choose to say that it ends not a measure too soon), far as musical substance is concerned, unfortunately, it is little better off than Ravel's "Bolero," or at least structural principle only slightly less arbitrary than the one employed by that four-decade.

By accident or design, there has been a first-class example of how to write an orchestral showpiece in which the professional effects serve musical ends, even if not the most elevated ones: the Scherzo of Tchaikovsky's Fourth. The old crowd-pleaser can rarely have pleased so well, not merely in matters of precision (in which it excels), but in its expected high level, but especially in the extraordinary dynamic range which was at Mr. Szell's disposal.

The remainder of the symphony received a performance of equal skill, although in no other movement does Tchaikovsky achieve a similar level of consistency. It is not that the ideas are poor (although the opening sections of the Finale is worse than poor), but that they are not handled with the sureness of touch that characterizes the Scherzo. Rhythmically, the exposition in the first movement is one of the most interesting things Tchaikovsky ever wrote, but it is not well-suited for the traditional framework within which it is employed (a problem of which he was aware, as the abrupt last recapitulation makes clear.) Needless to say, Mr. Szell's performance, with its careful attention to the numerous rhythmic subtleties was all that could be desired.

The opening work, one of Mozart's early divertimento shows, alas, of one of its minutes, shared the familiar virtues of ensemble which have already been mentioned. In truth, however, this is not music for a symphony orchestra, and although some of the strings were banished, too many still remained. No matter what the degree of unanimity, four contrabasses cannot move with the lightness which is here required, and the same holds for the other strings. To compensate, all the musical sections were enlarged; the instrumentalists, and the dynamic scale inflated. With any other orchestra, the results would have been disastrous; here they were merely unfortunate, especially insofar as they affected the balance with the winds (among which the four horns should be singled out for accuracy beyond the call of duty).

However, despite such reservations, it is a pleasure to report that Cleveland is still on the gold standard when it comes to orchestral playing, and it is to be hoped that its return to McCarter will not be long delayed.

STRINGS TO PLAY

In Series II Concert, One of Europe's most distinguished chamber ensembles, The Lucerne Festival Strings, will play in McCarter Theatre

Monday at 8:30 in the fourth concert of Series II of the Princeton University Concerts. Founded in 1953 by the violinist Wolfgang Schneiderhan, the group comprises 10 members—three women from six countries, all of whom have been pupils in Mr. Schneiderhan's master classes. The Festival Strings' repertory consists of classic works by composers as Bach and Vivaldi, but also the compositions of contemporary composers like Honneger and Bartok.

This is the group's second tour of North America. It will appear at the Metropolitan in New York and in 30 other major cities throughout the United States and Canada. The Festival Strings have toured Europe widely, appearing at the Prados, Lucerne, Salzburg and Edinburgh festivals.

For their Princeton appearance, the Strings have chosen the following program: Concerto for Violin, Op. 6, No. 4 by Corelli; Chaconne in G minor by Purcell; "Pieces en Concert" for Violoncelle and String Orchestra by Couperin; "Dances Sacree et Pastorale" for Harp and String Orchestra by Debussy; Variations for Oboe and String Orchestra (1934) by Maurice Strakosky; and Concerto in B minor, Opus 3, No. 10 from "L'Estro Armonico" by Vivaldi.

Tickets are on sale at the University Store, and will be available at the McCarter box office the night of the concert.

WORKSHOP FOR BALLET?

FIRST IN Series. Workshop conducted by Mr. Peter Hamilton will give the public an opportunity to see the work of new choreographers and to meet the choreographers in person. The first in the series will be presented this spring under the auspices of the Princeton Ballet Society.

The first in the series will be held Sunday, February 24, at 5 p.m. and Sunday, March 2, at 4 p.m. and 8 p.m. in the society's studio, 262 Alexander Street.

Peter Hamilton, dancer and choreographer, will appear in the first workshop-concert, joined by Eleanor Coffey, Carol Smith and Barbara Sheehy. The dancers will consider works in the modern and jazz idioms.

Acclaimed by such critics as Walter Terry and John Martin as one of the country's outstanding male dancers, Mr. Hamilton has appeared as lead dancer in several New York City productions. He has starred over 70 musical comedies, operettas and TV shows, and is known in Princeton through his choreography for the Triangle Club. He has held this position for the past eight years.

TO SING OPERA

In Workshop Program. Scenes from five operas will be presented by professional singers Sunday in a "Mise en Scene" offered by the Princeton Opera Association. The program will be given at 8:30 p.m. in the Playhouse on the Westminister Choir College campus.

The Association will present Act III of Puccini's "La Boheme" with James Gill of Kendall Park as Rodolfo, Jan Kaur of Leonia as Mimì and Stanley B. Pyper as Marcello. The program will be given at 8:30 p.m. in the Playhouse on the Westminister Choir College campus.

For its production of Act II of Puccini's "Madame Butterfly," the Association will present Joyce Gill of Kendall Park as Suzuki and Claire Everhard, also of Kendall Park, as Butterfly. In Acts I and II of Verdi's "Aida," Valerio Macconi of Levittown will sing Radames, Virginia Cole will sing Aida, and Nancy Jackson will be heard as Amneris.

In the Prologue to Act I of Gounod's "Faust," Woodward Waeche will sing Mephistopheles and Mr. Gill will sing Faust. Walter Blazer will be the director and James Waters will be the piano accompanist. Each operatic selection will be acted out in costume, with whatever basic props are required.

"Elijah" to Be Sung

Musical amateurs who like to sing are invited to join the Princeton University Musical Amateurs this Sunday in a performance of Mendelssohn's oratorio, "Elijah."

Singing will begin at 5 p.m. in the gymnasium of Miss Fine's School under the direction of J. Merrill Knapp. Soloists will include the Princetonians: Elva Kelsall, contralto; Clarence Moore, tenor and Woodward Waeche, bass.

Those who wish to attend are asked to call Mrs. Mackenzie Bryan at 3-1443, between 2 and 5 so that arrangements can be made for music and refreshments.

All Are Invited. Members of the Guild of the Princeton Opera Association will be admitted free upon presentation of membership card. Tickets will be $2 each, $3 for couples or families. The purchase of a $2 ticket entitles the buyer to Guild membership.

Formed last season to provide workshop training and repertory study for professional singers, the Princeton Opera Association will have 21 these singer the performing opportunities which are denied them because there are so few opera companies in the United States.

Among the Princeton singers who will be heard on Sunday, Mrs. Holly Knapp will sing for her own oratorio, concert and opera. Mr. Waeche was soloist with the Princeton Baroque Orchestra in the recent production of two Bach cantatas and has sung as soloist at Trinity Church and with the Society of Musical Amateurs.

Mr. Cole studied under Boris Goldovsky and was a finalist in Vienna Opera tryouts under Erich Leinsdorf. He has sung Leonora, Senta in "The Flying Dutchman" and The Witch in Humperdink's "Hansel and Gretel."

Mr. Macconi has sung in operas throughout South America and Europe. His operatic repertory includes, besides "Aida," such works as "Rigoletto," among others.

Mr. Gill, to be heard as Rodolfo, made his 1940 operatic debut in that role in Caracas. He has sung with the NBC Opera Company, the Wagner Opera Company of New Orleans and at the Brooklyn Academy of Music.

Mrs. Kurz has sung opera in Paris with Henry Louis and with the East Bay Opera Company of Oakland, California.

For the workshop productions on Sunday, behind-the-scenes work has been done by Peter Lorette, membership chairman, Mrs. Gill, who has doubled with programming and singing; Trudy Blake Williams, soprano, who coaches the Act II "Aida," Jack Yost, vice-president of the organization, and Roscoe Williams, its president.

IT'S RECITAL TIME

TWO TOUGH ONES AHEAD

For Little Tigers. With just five games remaining of its six-game schedule, the Princeton High School basketball team will enter its final two weeks of play by meeting the two toughest of them, Peddie and Steierner. A double win here and the Little Tigers' 9-3 will be off winning in their attempt to duplicate last year's fine 15-3 effort.

Peddie will travel to Princeton for a Friday afternoon contest scheduled to end under way at 3:30. Tomorrow, Elv and Gold will be gunning for its 11th victory which eluded Saturday, following a hard-fought 60-57 defeat by Lawrenceville. Peddie has lost three.

The Blue and White will remain home for a return game with Steierner on Tuesday afternoon at 3:30. Then, after a game at Hamilton next Thursday, the Little Tigers will return home for their final two games.

Though only 7-7 this year, the Spartans count PHS as one of their victims. In fact, of Princeton's three defeats, Stei-

News Of The CHURCHES

REPORT FROM CHICAGO
On Religion and Race. "I didn't have to go to Chicago to talk about race, but I knew before that a Catholic layman is just as interested in this as I am."

The comment of John S. Yost, Loomis Court, keynotes the recent National Conference on Religion and Race held in Chicago. It was the first joint effort of Protestants, Jews and Roman Catholics to combat racial bias on a national scale.

Mr. Yost and Mrs. David Saunders of 447 Walnut Lane were two of the 30 delegates appointed by the United Presbyterian Church. Their report on the Conference was given Wednesday before the Princeton Pastors' Association.

"There was real talk across racial and religious lines," says Mrs. Saunders. "One negro from New York, Dr. Anna Hedgman, told us, 'You are talking about and at negroes' when are you going to talk with us?'"

Too Late? Delegates heard comments ranging from "Too little, too late and too little while," from Episcopal layman William Stringfellow, a New York attorney, to endorsement of plans to organize similar inter-faith conferences on state-wide levels.

"The most quoted person," Mrs. Saunders commented, "was James Baldwin — who wasn't there. We saw him at the Newark airport, but it was said that he was considered too controversial to be invited. His New York, The Fire Next Time," was much discussed."

"You came back from a thing like this — there were about 1,500 delegates and observers there — with the feeling that others are doing more than you, and your efforts will have to be redoubled," said Mr. Yost who has been an indefatigable worker in the

Princeton area on behalf of racial equality. "Some people felt it is too late," he added. "Will Campbell of the National Council of Churches, Nashville, says that a race war is inevitable. 'The thesis of Dr. Franklin Little of Chicago Theological Seminary was that it takes a catastrophe to make a church and itself. He cited the effect of Hitler and communism on the German Church. He said that: 'We haven't even begun to be Christians. It may take a catastrophe here—it is really that serious.'"

Urgency, Mr. Yost adds, "I can't tell you the deep sense of urgency I felt in this thing. I've heard ordained ministers say, 'give us more time.' How much more do they need? Another 100 years?"

The conference dealt mainly with white's discrimination against negroes. The Princeton delegates reported that the antipathy between negroes and Puerto Ricans in New York City was briefly mentioned in conversations, as was the negro-Mexican situation in Los Angeles. Other minority groups were not part of the forums.

"With the negro," Mrs. Saunders noted, "it is a specific problem because he is a native American and he can't get his full rights as a citizen." The Jewish people are pretty well integrated in Princeton. They have as much to give."

Mrs. Saunders, who lives in an inter-racial housing area, found many delegates interested in the Princeton YWCA Clearing House, which lists residents who support inter-racial housing.

New way to say "I Love You."
More today than yesterday
But less than tomorrow.

Next Step. "The economic disparity by churches is tremendous," said Mr. Yost. "An economic boycott could be very effective, if the churches examined their suppliers and investments as to fair employment and so on. I intend to propose to the Presbytery of New Brunswick, after studying the situation, that we get the denominations to look at where we have our money invested from the economic point of view. Every denomination would do this, we could see the power we have."

Mrs. Saunders plans to bend her efforts towards support of clergy who have lost their pulpits because of their support of racial equality, and to work through the church for the social and economic integration of the negro. "This is where the churches should be taking leadership."

STEVENSON DUE HERE
For Seminary Conference. U. S. Ambassador Adlai Stevenson will participate in the "Ethics and Politics in World Affairs" conference set for this weekend at Princeton Seminary. More than 60 churchmen, diplomats, businessmen and educators are expected to attend.

Opening Friday afternoon and continuing through Sunday, the conference is the third in a series of six being held during the Seminary's 150th anniversary celebration. Dean Elmer G. Honnighausen is chairman and Dr. Charles C. West, president of Christian ethics, co-chairman.

Other discussion leaders are: Kenneth S. Maxwell of the National Council of Churches' international affairs department; Dr. Eduardo Mondlane of Mozambique; Professor Masao Takemaki of Osaka University; J. A. Dean Francis O. Wilcox of

Person to Person

A bachelor acquaintance told us that one of the most appropriate thing he had ever read about the customs of olden times was that the ancient Greeks threw nuts rather than rice at the bride and groom. But you know, regardless of all the fun-poking at marriage, it is basic to civilization, and it has been truly said that man without a mate is not complete. In the broader sense of the word "marry," life is made up of a long series of things to which we become closely bonded, such as it can be said that we marry our jobs or our business or our habits, to name a few. For our part, we are truly married to our business and we give it all the respect and devotion anyone or anything to which we are wed should have. And it shows through in our respect and dedication to serving you. Kammiller Buick-Pontiac Co., Route 296, opposite Princeton Airport, WA 1-2222
